Give details of gestational diabetes:

What is the role of a Health Visitor?

During a consultation, your GP may ask questions such as:

4 types of tests an expectant mother may have (give a description):

How are birth defects such as Down’s syndrome and spina bifida diagnosed?

Types of pain relief for mothers in labour:

During a consultation, your GP may ask questions such as:

A doctor’s qualifications will include:

Deciding which patients need treatment straight away, and which can wait is called:

Explain why a baby’s weight is closely monitored in the first year.

Places you may meet an NHS practitioner:

What is the role of the NHS?

A paramedic’s qualifications will include:

A nurse’s qualifications will include:

Describe the three stages of labour

GP stands for:
What number indicates satisfactory progress on the APGAR scale?

IVF stands for:

Six stages of IVF treatment:
1. ........................................
2. ........................................
3. ........................................
4. ........................................
5. ........................................
6. ........................................

Give details of pre-eclampsia:

List the health professionals a newborn baby may meet:

APGAR stands for:
A ........................................
P ........................................
G ........................................
A ........................................
R ........................................

Before an operation the doctor will explain the ........................................ so you can give ........................................

IVF increases the risks of a:

NHS stands for:

A health visitor (HV) will use a graph to plot details of a baby’s:

Describe the procedure for measuring blood pressure.

What will the reading tell you?

Describe the procedure for testing urine.

What will the reading tell you?

What does ABC stand for?
A ........................................
B ........................................
C ........................................

Human reproduction

A growth chart has ........................................ lines. 50 is average.

Describe the procedure for measuring blood pressure.

What will the reading tell you?

Describe the procedure for testing urine.

What will the reading tell you?

What number indicates satisfactory progress on the APGAR scale?

IVF stands for:

Six stages of IVF treatment:
1. ........................................
2. ........................................
3. ........................................
4. ........................................
5. ........................................
6. ........................................

Give details of pre-eclampsia:

List the health professionals a newborn baby may meet:

APGAR stands for:
A ........................................
P ........................................
G ........................................
A ........................................
R ........................................

Before an operation the doctor will explain the ........................................ so you can give ........................................

IVF increases the risks of a:

NHS stands for:

A health visitor (HV) will use a graph to plot details of a baby’s:

Describe the procedure for measuring blood pressure.

What will the reading tell you?

Describe the procedure for testing urine.

What will the reading tell you?

What does ABC stand for?
A ........................................
B ........................................
C ........................................

Human reproduction

A growth chart has ........................................ lines. 50 is average.

Describe the procedure for measuring blood pressure.

What will the reading tell you?

Describe the procedure for testing urine.

What will the reading tell you?

What number indicates satisfactory progress on the APGAR scale?

IVF stands for:

Six stages of IVF treatment:
1. ........................................
2. ........................................
3. ........................................
4. ........................................
5. ........................................
6. ........................................

Give details of pre-eclampsia:

List the health professionals a newborn baby may meet:

APGAR stands for:
A ........................................
P ........................................
G ........................................
A ........................................
R ........................................

Before an operation the doctor will explain the ........................................ so you can give ........................................

IVF increases the risks of a:

NHS stands for:

A health visitor (HV) will use a graph to plot details of a baby’s:

Describe the procedure for measuring blood pressure.

What will the reading tell you?

Describe the procedure for testing urine.

What will the reading tell you?

What does ABC stand for?
A ........................................
B ........................................
C ........................................

Human reproduction

A growth chart has ........................................ lines. 50 is average.